

03 APRIL 2019

16:30 in ROOM GAMMA
Via Ampère 2, Milan

Fast events and slow heritage: The case of Pafos 2017 European Capital of Culture

Evanthia Dova (Neapolis University Pafos, Cyprus)

Discussants:

Francesca Albani (Politecnico di Milano)

Shuyi Xie (Politecnico di Milano)

The 2017 European Capital of Culture took place in the historic city of Pafos, Cyprus. The event has addressed heritage sites, urban revitalization and several problems derived from changing social conditions in Europe. This was the occasion of rethinking the role of urban heritage with reference to, among others, international tourism and migration. In this seminar, Evanthia Dova (Neapolis University Pafos), will discuss about how a number of frictions as well as innovative solutions resurfaced in this process, and how they could be useful in treating the relationship between mega-events and cultural heritage in Europe.

Evanthia Dova (DipArch Aristotle University of Thessaloniki; March II at Yale University) is a Lecturer at Neapolis University Pafos and has her PhD from the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki School of Architecture. She has been a member of the Pafos2017 Working Group, preparing the candidacy and designing the implementation of Pafos as a European Capital of Culture.

SEMINAR SERIES Cultural Mega-events and Urban Heritage: Threats and Opportunities for European Cities

Organized by: Davide Ponzini, Nicole De Togni, Zachary Jones. With support from DASTU, DJPICH HOMEE Project, Erasmus +
For information, contact: zachary.jones@polimi.it; nicole.detogni@polimi.it, <http://www.tau-lab.polimi.it>

POLITECNICO
MILANO 1863

SCUOLA DI ARCHITETTURA URBANISTICA
INGEGNERIA DELLE COSTRUZIONI

POLITECNICO
MILANO 1863

DIPARTIMENTO DI ARCHITETTURA
E STUDI URBANI
DEPARTMENT OF ARCHITECTURE AND URBAN STUDIES

DIPARTIMENTO
D'ECCELLENZA
FRAGILITÀ TERRITORIALI
2018–2022

Transnational Architecture and Urbanism
www.tau-lab.polimi.it

HOMEE

Heritage Opportunities/threats within Mega-Events in Europe: